FIRST OF MANY – The Roadrunners earned their first win of the season Friday with a 7-4 victory over San Jose after being shut out in their season opener and falling 5-3 to Colorado on Sunday. Five Roadrunners scored their first goals of the season: Zac Jones, Cameron Hebig, Ben McCartney, Caleb Desnoyers and Artem Duda. Jones' goal marked his first in a Roadrunners sweater, while Desnoyers' tally was the rookie's first professional goal. Duda also found the back of the net for the first time since Dec. 31 after missing the second half of last season.

FOUR POINT NIGHT – Rookie forward Gabe Smith recorded the first four points of his AHL career Friday, dishing out four assists in Tucson's 7-4 win over San Jose. Smith became the first Roadrunner this season to record four points in a game and earned First Star honors. Smith and fellow rookie Tij Iginla each recorded their first career AHL points. Smith's four-assist performance helped make him one of five Roadrunners to record multiple points in the victory.

STREAKING INTO THE WEEKEND – Several Roadrunners extended their scoring streaks to two games in Friday's win over San Jose. Vadim Moroz had a goal and an assist to extend his scoring streak (2-1-3), while Ben McCartney (1-2-3) and Zac Jones (1-1-2) have also found the scoresheet in back-to-back games. Kevin Rooney scored for the second consecutive game, while Yegor Borikov recorded an assist for the second straight game.

SPECIAL DELIVERY – After going scoreless on the power play through the first two games of the season, Tucson's special teams broke through Friday, converting on two of three power-play opportunities, with goals from Ben McCartney and Artem Duda. Tucson's power play ranks T-4th in the Pacific at 20%.
